Director's Notes

Dear Friends –

Welcome to DRACULA and the opening of Ballet Nebraska's second season! We enjoyed an incredible debut season last year and would like to thank each and every one of you that has been a part of the magic. We love movement and music and creativity and stories and people. Thank you for joining us this evening for what you are sure to find is a thrilling, haunting and beautiful performance.

Winthrop Corey has created a thought-provoking ballet in his retelling of Bram Stoker's classic novel. As the story of DRACULA unfolds, we begin to see the man behind the monster, we explore both darkness and love.

In December, Ballet Nebraska will debut our brand new version of THE NUTCRACKER to our Omaha-area audiences. Featuring exciting choreography and exquisite costumes, THE NUTCRACKER will transport you into the enchanting world of a child's beautiful dreams.

A hair-raising Rat Queen, the angelic sounds of the Opera Omaha Children's Chorus, a visit to the North Pole... these are just a few of the surprises that await. We hope that Ballet Nebraska's NUTCRACKER will become a favorite holiday tradition in your family!

Performances will take place at the Iowa Western Arts Center on December 2, and the Omaha Music Hall on December 4. Additionally, join us for a lovely afternoon on November 27 as the Ballet Nebraska Guild hosts a Nutcracker Tea Party at the historic Joslyn Castle.

This spring, Ballet Nebraska is thrilled to once again be partnering with the Joslyn Art Museum during our MOMENTUM production. The performance will feature a dramatic new ballet Cleopatra in celebration of the Joslyn's touring exhibition To Live Forever: Egyptian Treasures from the Brooklyn Museum (February 11- June 10, 2012).

Ballet Nebraska gratefully acknowledges the support of The Iowa West Foundation.

Headquartered in Council Bluffs, the Foundation assists nonprofit organizations and government entities with funding for area projects. Funding for the Foundation's grants comes from investment earnings and the Iowa West Racing Association (IWRA), which receives contracted fees from casino operators – Ameristar and Harrah's. IWRA distributes funds to the Foundation, which is an independent 501(c)(3) organization that makes grants in southwest Iowa and eastern Nebraska.

For information about the Iowa West Foundation, visit its website at www.iowawestfoundation.org

Also on the roster is DanceSport. Created by nationally-renowned choreographer and showman Harrison McEldowney, DanceSport is a riotously witty look at the intersection between competitive sports and professional dance, complete with hilarious play-by-play commentary!

MOMENTUM will also highlight new works by Matthew Carter and Monique Haley. Don't miss this opportunity to see our dancers soar as they celebrate the many facets of dance in this diverse program.

And now, Transylvania awaits. If you can avoid becoming Dracula's next victim, we look forward to seeing you at our next performance!

Best wishes,

Ballet

The Story of Dracula

Dracula, for centuries a victim, a man changed by circumstances far beyond comprehension into a sinister character of pride, cruelty and cunning, aristocratic arrogance and a brooding sense of grievance and entitlement.

The character of Dracula is a brilliant creation, and no other setting can match the disquieting, terrifying magnificence of Transylvania, where the wolves howl at night, bats wing low and heavy doors slam shut. These two features, character and setting, are Bram Stoker's enduring contribution to the vampire tale. In a stroke of genius, Stoker took a person who really lived in the 15th century (Prince Vlad II) and a real place (Transylvania, in what is now western Romania) and fused them with folklore. The result is a "sinister character of disquieting force," and a setting that is wonderfully eerie and remote.

Act I, Scene I: The Castle

Jonathan Harker travels from London to Transylvania and the castle of Count Dracula with papers that must be signed to complete real estate dealings. In the course of his visit, he becomes an intended victim and is drugged by Count Dracula. Three of Dracula's brides, themselves vampires, taunt him until Dracula reappears and sends them away. Dracula then, unsuccessfully, tries to bite his victim, thus turning him into a vampire, but Jonathan escapes and flees back to London to his fiancée, Mina.

Act I, Scene II: A Masquerade Ball

A Masquerade Ball is the setting for Jonathan's and Mina's wedding reception, where guests in fanciful costumes waltz to the familiar strains of Strauss, and a band of Gypsies comes to entertain. As guests arrive, so does a mysterious guest dressed in black: Count Dracula. As it is a masked ball, his identity is unknown. He first encounters Lucy, Mina's favorite friend, and is taken with her extraordinary beauty and gaiety. As they begin to dance, his gaze happens to fall upon Mina, and he is struck by her purity and grace. Unable to get close to her, he turns his attention back to Lucy. After the guests have left the ball, Lucy returns to retrieve her mask, and happens upon Dracula. He weaves upon her his spell that ends with a bite, leaving her as if dead. Mina and Jonathan return to find her lying on the ballroom floor.

Act II, Scene I: A Funeral Procession

Led by Mina and Jonathan, a funeral procession is taking Lucy to her final resting place. Waiting for them is Count Dracula, who has come to claim his new bride. Shrinking back in horror, the men are unable to stop him from taking the body of Lucy. They vow to catch him, saving Lucy, and travel after him to his castle in Transylvania.

Act II, Scene II: The Castle

Count Dracula has brought Lucy to the castle, where she is surrounded by his other brides and is slowly brought to life as a vampire. Hearing the approaching band of men, the brides and Dracula vanish. Jonathan, along with his men, prepares to search the castle for Dracula and leaves Mina alone. Lucy appears and begins to initiate Mina, who is intended to become Dracula's next bride. When finally Dracula and Mina meet, he realizes his love for her. His natural instincts are to make her his bride, but because of his true love he is unable to. Jonathan, accompanied by his men, storms into the room in an attempt to save her.
